CHINESE PHILOLOGY.

On the 10th May the Royal Asiatic Society

eld a special meeting at its rooms, 22, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, Sir Edward Cololirooks, M.P.

n the chair, for the purpose of receiving a paper from the eminent French Sinologue, M. Terrion de Lacouperie, of whose important researches in Chinese philology some account was given in The Times of the 20th ult. Advantage was taken of this extra meeting for the election of the hinese Ambassador, the Marquis Tseng, as an honorary member of the acciety, which was at once voted with outhusiasm, on the proposal of Lord Stanley, spounded by Sir H. Rawlinson. M. Terrien de Lancuperie's paper, which was in French, was entitled, "Sur l'histoire de la langue Chinoise et de quelques noms géographiques de l'Empire du Milieu." It ran to such a longth that the learned author confined himself to reading a comparatively small portion. On this account, as well as by reason of its technical and abstruse character, it does not admit of abstract. Its general nature and drift, however, may be gathered from the remarks made upon it, at the chairman's request; by Professor Longlas, who fills the Chinese chair in King's College, London. The theory, he said, brought forward in M. Terrien de Lacouperie's paper was startling to those who had been nometomed to accept the assertions of the Chinese historians as to the extreme antiquity of their race in China and its total isolation from the rest of the world. But the evidence the author had been able to adduce was no less startling than his theory. On that occasion he had rather given them stray results from his researches than formal proofs of the correctness of his views. The lecturer's discoveries. with regard to the Yill King were those which would strike the imagination most. Here was a book the original text of which was attempted to be explained by Wan Wang and Chow Kung about B.C. 1200, again by Confucius, six or seven centuries afterwards, and subsequently by a commentators, whose works on the subject would more than fill the room in which they were met, not one of them had been able to give a full and satisfactory explanation of its contents. Confucius had said." If my life were prolonged, I would give 50 years to the study of the Yih." - After his death there arose nine rival schools of interpretation, and during succeeding centuries every conceivable gloss had been put upon its menning. At the time of the burning of the books under the Ta'in dynasty the Yih was saved from destruction because it was held to be a work of divination. By the followers of Choo He, under the Sung dynasty, it was believed to contain the elements of all metaphysical knowledge, and to be the clue to all the secrets of nature and of being. To foreign students of Chinese it had been a perfect play-ground of theories, and it had, he felt fully convinced, been reserved for M. Terrien de Lacouperie to explain what 30 centuries of native scholarship had been unable to understand. The true key to the mystery had remained undiscovered until now. M. Terrien de Lacouperie wight, therefore, be said to stort with a clear ground. If his researches such evidence as would lift his views out of the demain of theory into that of fact. After some remarks from Colonel Yule, hearty thanks were voted to the reader for his valuable paper.

Solomon Islands .- Straits Times, The Galle correspondent of the Ceuton Observer, under date 18th May, gives the following description of the mutinous conduct of the officers and crew of the steamer Genil:-The eteamor Genil, belonging to the Spanish Government and bound to New Britain, put in here last evening at aix p.m. After calling at Barcelone she touched at Aden. At the latter port her two engineers went ashore without leave, and the captain only succeeded in getting them on board after four days' detention. He had them put in irons, but they were released after the vessel left Aden. On Wednesday last the steamer touched at the Maldives for water. and was there till Friday. On that day the two engineers and chief officer, accompanied by four seamen, took advantage of the absence of the commander, and launched the long boat; taking with them a cask of brandy and wine, Winchester rifles, revolvers, ammunition, provisions, clothing, and 7,000 francs in Spanish money, all the property of the Spanish Government. They made for one of the small islands in the Laccadive group. In endeavouring to effect a landing the boat was wrocked on the shore reef, and the occupants of the boat had to isoharge the cargo. It appears there is no fresh water in this Island, and the men were last seen (by a party who went in search of them) plucking cocoanuts from the trees. On arriving at Galle the captain, apprehending that the remaining portion of the crew would leave the steamer, asked for the aid of the police. The latter are now on board and order prevails to some extent. The captain discovered three feet of water in the hold this morning; an engineer from a canal steamer lying alongside has been working a great part of the day to discover the cause of the leak, and all the ship's pumps have been set to work to reduce the water. The captain and passengers are Freachmen, amongst the latter are a Director of Agriculture and Engineering, a botanist, surgeon, &o, who have joined the ship from Paris. The crew are Arabs, commanded by a Nubian sarang. The cargo consists of arms, summnition, clothing, agricultural

The Straits Times, in a later issue, adds :-We are informed the steamer Genil. "the Coloniser," now lying alongside the New Harbour Dock, is in a parlows plight. Her hold is not free from water; the men are not over tractable; her stores are damaged, and, to cap all, Major Studer, the American Consul refuses to recognise the vessel as having any claim upon the

NOTICE. HE Undersigned Firm has been established I in Hongkong for more than THIRTY YEARS, and has never had a branch establishment anywhere. All Orders for Goods have been executed under our own supervision and the best of materials used. We have always enjoyed the patronage and confidence of the Gentry and Merchants of Hongkong and Ports near and far, but now we are afraid that as another firm hast lately been started having a SIMILAR HONG NAME, our Customers may be misled and induced to think! it is identical with ours. Accordingly we give notice that we have no CONNECTION WITH ANY OTHER FIRM, and respectfully ask our Customers and the Public to pay particular attention to our Address, given below, and our Chop, which is stamped on all our Goods, and without which none are genuine.
